the suburban region, where practically nothing is spent on police, a paltry $2,000,000 francs ($200,000). It may be added that the suburban policeman, although scarce, is not overworked, and it speaks wonders for the high standard of orderliness and honesty of the French that it should be possible for large agglomerations of communes containing 20,000 or 30,000 inhabitants to exist without more than a dozen policemen. The expense of policing the suburbs is mostly provided for by a tax on alcohol. Thus by poetic justice the drunkard who is taken up by the police is paying his captor out of his own pocket.

Police expenses in the provinces are considerably less than in Paris. Nice pays most in proportion to the number of inhabitants; about 4 francs ($1.20) per head per year. This is accounted for by the number of foreign visitors who have to be specially watched after or over. Of the other cities Marseilles pays 3 francs (60 cents), Bordeaux, 4 francs (80 cents), Toulouse, 2 francs (55 cents), Saint Etienne, 2 francs 15 (42 cents), Rheims, 2 francs (40 cents), and Lyon, cheapest of all, 1 franc 50 (39 cents).

The Paris police costs so much more for a variety of reasons. For one thing, the police authorities have to pay for the sanitary service, the inspection of markets and the upkeep of the anthropometric department, which though maintained by Paris, is utilized by the whole country. Besides this, all the master criminals of the provinces come to Paris to hide, and the organized gangs of malefactors have their headquarters at Paris, for there alone can they find receivers for stolen goods and brokers for stolen securities.

Protecting the Animals.
The Mayor of a little commune in the department of the Haute Pyrenees, anxious about the digestion of domestic animals, recently issued the following order:

"Whereas the young people of this commune are accustomed to meet after mass on Sundays for the purpose of dancing; whereas the noise they make frightens the cocks, hens and other animals of the village; whereas there results from this a depreciation of the value of the agricultural products; we hereby forbid the practice of dancing within the precincts of this commune during the hours at which the domestic animals take their meals."

The news of the approaching sale of the house which Napoleon inhabited during his exile in the Isle of Elba has produced quite a sensation in France. It is asked in many quarters that the French government should take steps to acquire this historic building, for if it is pointed out by one organ, there are different political parties in France, abroad there is only the nation's fair fame, which would not gain by allowing this villa to fall into the hands of some commercial enterprise. "Imagine," concludes the writer, "the German hotelkeeper in possession of the villa of Porto-Porrato and the bust of Bismarck planted firmly on the facade."

Fine Profit from Gambling.
The French government is making a fine profit out of the gambling in-dust of the French nation. Some interesting figures are published, showing the steady increase in the proceeds of the casinos, which came under the control of the state on June 15, 1907. The next year they produced $5,800,000. In 1908 the total was $7, 400,000, and in 1911, $8,900,000. Exactly last year no less than $9,600,000 was sacrificed by the lovers of public games of chance.

Apart from the amounts which are handed over by each establishment for the benefit of its own commune, the state levies a tax of 15 per cent. on the gross profits, which is administered by a special committee at the ministry of the interior, and is spent on this source $865,000, in 1909, $1,120,000;

The fall army manoeuvres in France, which will this year be on a bigger scale than any held since the famous display before the Champs in 1902, will take place in Touraine and Poitou.
They begin on September 11 and last eight days. Ninety thousand men will take the field under the supreme command of General Joffre.

Generals Gallieni and Marion will respectively command the opposing forces, which will be approximately equal numerically.

At least fifty aeroplanes and several dirigibles will be engaged.

MRS. MONTAGUE AT MANASSAS.

Increases Interest in Home of Needy Confederate Women.
Manassas, Va., August 31.—Mrs. Andrew J. Montague, of Richmond, returned to her home in that city today after spending several days in Manassas in the interest of the Home for Needy Confederate Women. Yesterday Mrs. Montague addressed the Manassas Chapter Daughters of the Confederacy in behalf of the home and met with an enthusiastic greeting. The members of the Daughters of the Confederacy here, both as a body and individually, manifested deep interest in Mrs. Montague's undertaking, and promised her substantial aid in the work.

HIGH VOTE IN WAKE.

Only One Contest of Any Interest on County Ticket.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Raleigh, N. C., August 31.—The localized Wake County primaries were held to-day with only the Democratic voting; Republicans having failed to put out tickets.

The Democratic vote was remarkably light, there being only one contest of any interest at all.
This was between E. C. Beddingfield, former Corporation Commissioner, and Roy E. Mitchell, a young rural merchant, for a place on the Board of County Commissioners. Beddingfield won by a big majority. Nominated along with Beddingfield is John A.
Mills as the second commissioner. He is former president of the Raleigh and Southwest Railroad, and now is general manager of the Elkins and Allegheny.

All the old county officers were renominated as follows: Sheriff, J. H.
Scars; Register of Deeds, C. H. Anderson; Treasurer, George Norwood; Coroner, Charles A. Searles; Surveyor, W. P. Mansey.

TRIAL SET FOR WEDNESDAY.

Wetzelville, Va., August 31.—Trial of another actor in the Hillsville courthouse tragedy of last spring, Victor Allen is scheduled on the court docket here for Wednesday. Little trouble in securing a jury is anticipated. It is reported that offers have been made to the Commonwealth's attorney to have a plea of guilty entered in consideration of a light sentence.

MEETING OF FARMERS.

Chatham, Va., August 31.—A well attended and representative meeting of the farmers of Pittsylvania County was held at the agricultural plate near this place on Thursday afternoon. The first speaker was Dr. J. G. Ferney-hough, State veterinarian, who confirmed his remarks particularly to the disease of sore mouth and feet of cattle, which is at present very prevalent in this section. Dr. S. W. Fletcher, director of the State experimental station, lectured on experimental station work. Dr. W. W. Garner, of the United States Department of Agriculture, made interesting talks on fertilizing and curing tobacco. The value of legumi-nous crops in rotation was presented in a very plain way by Professor Lyman Carrier, of Blacksburg, and E. H. Mathewson, of the United States Department of Agriculture, discussed the judicious use of fertilizer and lime.
P. M. Comer, president of the Pittssylvania County Farmers' Union, closed with a few practical remarks. After the speaking the plates were inspected and experiments explained by R. P. in Baltimore.

Cooke, who has charge of the station.
The meeting passed a resolution that on the first Wednesday of next August an all-day meeting be held, that women be invited and that dinner be served.

Rev. John Watkins, of Spartanburg, is visiting his brother, T. A. Watkins.
He will preach at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.
Two colored cooks at the convict camp near this place became involved in a row Thursday, using butcher knives, necessitating the taking of three stitches in one of the combatants' arms. Things were getting very warm and assuming an ugly appearance when a nearby guard ended the trouble.

Royd—Cooper.

Heathsville, Va., August 31.—Taylor Royd, of Baltimore, and Miss Mattie E. Cooper, daughter of Captain F. W.
Cooper, of near Burgess Store, were married this morning by Rev. J. R.
Massey at the Methodist Protestant parsonage. They will make their home
